Our Soldier Boys

Here is a letter from Wm. C. Crawford Jr. written "Somewhere in France" and I ask that it be published.

Co. K. 323rd Inf. U. S. A. Po. 791.
American Expeditionary Forces,
Sept. 3, 1918.

My Dear Wife and Baby:—Just received your most appreciated letter today, written July 28. I surely was glad to hear from you. I hope you are getting my letters alright, I think it takes them three weeks or more to get to you. I am feeling fine, and have been all the while, it is surely a great blessing to have good health.

What do the people think about the war at home? We hardly know what to think of it, some think it will last a long time and others think it will soon be over.

Suppose you are busy most of the time, there is nothing much for me to do. Dorris and I go out with the signal bunch every day, I feel that I am getting so lazy, if I could get back I would be glad to go to work again. We got some Red Cross kits the other day that were right handy. They contained: pins, needles, thread, tooth brushes, combs, knives, tobacco and some few other things, we also have sweaters and socks for winter, they have not issued them all out yet, I think they came from New York.

How are the crops there? I hope everybody will make good crops. You said it was awful warm there, it seems like mid-fall here now.

You will notice my address is different, we haven't moved just changed the address. There are two small stores here, ladies run them. They sell a great deal of wine, tho it is not very good. The Chaplain came over and preached for us Sunday. These people here work on Sunday the same as any other day in the week.

I thought maybe I would catch on to the French language in a little while, tho I don't think now I ever will. This surely is a strange country. I don't see how any American would want to stay here, of course there may be better places in France. All the houses are built of rock, the houses and barns are built together, with rock fences around the yard and lot. There is very little fruit here, I have seen a few apricots, plums, grapes and blackberries.

Do not worry about me, I am getting along alright, some day I hope we shall enjoy all the pleasures of life together. Oh, I do hope and trust it won't be long before I can return to you and baby.

We have plenty to eat all the time. Have our pallets on the floor in some vacant houses, they are made of wheat straw. I would hardly know how to sleep on a real bed.

Remember I am thinking of you and baby all the while. Write as often as you can and tell me all the news.

Your true husband,
Wm. C.

Fayette Quota in War Work Campaign

Fayette county's quota in the United War Work Campaign, November 11 to 18, was placed at $10,000 by the West Tennessee divisional conference in session at Memphis last Friday. The total quota for Tennessee is $1,625,000, and the West Tennessee counties are expected to go over the top with a minimum of $475,000 of this amount.

Dr. John L. Weber delivered the principal address at the divisional conference held in the Goodwyn Institute, and detailed the purpose of this first united welfare effort by a combination of the seven big organizations—Young Men's Christian Association, Young Women's Christian Association, Jewish Welfare Board, Salvation Army, American Library Association, National Catholic War Council and the War Camp Community Service, embracing every creed and denomination in a big, broad effort to serve the American fighting men.

Enthusiasm and harmony reigned at the West Tennessee conference when the patriotic spirit of the United drive was demonstrated in a series of conferences throughout the day.

Intense organization now will be pushed in this county with the enlisting of every man, woman and child in the great movement to help the nation's soldiers and sailors.

Sleep and Rest

One of the most common causes of insomnia and restlessness is indigestion. Take one of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after supper and see if you do not rest better and sleep better. They only cost a quarter.

War Work Campaign in Fayette County

"This organization of the county forces for the big drive to raise our quota of the United War Work Fund of $170,500,000 to brighten the lives of our boys who are fighting, is now practically perfected and I anticipate we will go over the top in great shape."

This is the view J. B. Summers, chairman of the United War Work Campaign Committee for this county. He has been asked many questions, however, indicating that everybody does not fully understand what the United War Work Fund is.

"The United War Work Fund is being raised at the request of President Wilson and the funds will be disbursed under the supervision of the War Department," he said.

"It is to be expended through channels with which everyone is already familiar, though they may not recognize these agencies under the name of the United War Work. The fund of this name is to be used in the work of the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A.; the National Catholic War Council, or Knights of Columbus, the Jewish Welfare Board, the War Camp Community Service, the American Library Association and the Salvation Army. These organizations have been officially recognized by the War Department and they are now to be financed by the United War Work Fund. Their work with this fund is to go forward without any relation to any creed or religion or propaganda of any sort. The sole object of these organizations will be to serve the soldiers and sailors.

The fund, when raised, will be apportioned as follows:

Y. M. C. A., $100,000,000; Y. W. C. A., $15,000,000; National Catholic War Council, $30,000,000; Jewish Welfare Board, $3,500,000; American Library Association, $3,500,000; War Camp Community Service, $15,000,000; Salvation Army, $3,500,000.

THE BEST PROOF

Given by a Somerville Citizen

Doan's Kidney Pills were used—they brought benefit.

The story was told to Somerville residents.

Time has strengthened the evidence. Has proven the result lasting.

The testimony is home testimony—The proof convincing.

It can be investigated by Somerville residents.

J. G. Knox, manager of gin mill, State St., Somerville, gave the following statement November 16, 1914: "I had been suffering from pain and lameness across my back and it got so bad, I couldn't stoop down to put on my shoes. My kidneys acted too freely and I was obliged to get up at night to pass the secretions. Flashes of light appeared before my eyes and I was often dizzy. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and it wasn't long before these troubles disappeared. I highly recommend Doan's to other kidney sufferers."

On May 2, 1918, Mr. Knox said: "I can speak just as highly of Doan's Kidney Pills today, as I did in 1914 when I testified to their merits. The cure they made for me at that time has remained permanent and I know Doan's can be depended upon for kidney ailments. I gladly endorse them again."

Memphis-Bound Liquor Cargo Caught Here

Last Saturday two high-power Cadillac automobiles with liquor packed in every conceivable crevice were captured by Sheriff T. M. Ross and a number of deputies as the cars were passing thru Fayette county enroute from Paducah to Memphis. They were the property of R. A. Berryman, noted Memphis liquor-law violator and well known in the police records of that city. Berryman was accompanied by a woman whom they said was his wife, but whom Memphis papers give as Ethel Davis, and two chauffeurs who gave their names as Sam Gold and William Jargin. All were placed in jail here where they were held until Monday evening when they gave bond for their appearance at circuit court next month and they were released and were immediately arrested on U. S. warrants and carried before Commissioner Poole in Memphis.

The party was first seen in this county by W. S. Latta who was out the Jackson road and saw them pass him coming this way. His suspicion was aroused and on his arrival the matter was reported to the sheriff who immediately took the trail and followed on the Moscow road, overtaking them at the latter place and taking charge and bringing machines, booze and owners back here, arriving just before dark Saturday night. The four were placed in jail and the booze was carried to the jail and locked up (except that said to have been stolen as it was being conveyed from the machines to the jail) where it is being held by the Sheriff until court meets. The cargo contained edone hundred cases, about 300 gallons, and Berryman told the Sheriff he paid $20 per case, $2,000 for the lot and expected to sell it in Memphis for two or three times as much.

It was the biggest liquor haul ever made in this county. It is said that Berryman and other Memphis vendors had passed here with cargoes of liquor on other occasions and had succeeded in evading the officers and had gone safely thru this county.

The four will be arraigned before the circuit court the fourth Monday of November when they will have to face Judge Baptist in the local court and Attorney-General Abnerath as prosecutor.

Democratic National Committee

October 18, 1918.

Hon. Hill McAlister, Maxwell House, Nashville, Tenn.

My Dear Sir:—The national Democratic organization feels a keen interest in the success of the Democratic candidates for Senator and Congressmen in your State. The national administration in this period of supreme crisis occasioned by the war is naturally very desirous of seeing its real friends selected to fill the important positions mentioned. During former wars each national administration in charge of the affairs of the government has felt constrained to urge the election of those of its political faith to these positions. I know of no reason why there should be a departure from this wise policy at this time, especially since it is generally conceded that the present administration has conducted the affairs of every department, bureau, and division of the government on the wisest and soundest policies. This is, furthermore no time for divided councils, or for a disturbance of that unity which is so essential to the continued successful prosecution of the war.

Senator John K. Shields, your nominee for United States Senator, has rendered constant and valued support to the national administration. His wise counsel and his splendid ability have been at the service of the government at every stake, and the National Committee and the national administration, who are in an attitude to recognize and appreciate its value most fully, are exceedingly desirous that Senator Shields may be re-elected by both a safe and maximum majority.

I desire also to say that the Democratic members of the Tennessee delegation of the House of Representatives have on all occasions given their valued and able co-operation to the administration and to the government in connection with all important phases of the government's war and domestic activities. I trust, therefore, that they each may receive the most favorable consideration of the voters in their respective districts.

Judge Albert H. Roberts, your nominee for Governor, has a splendid reputation for ability, loyalty, and patriotism. May I therefore express the further hope that every attention be given to the success of his candidacy, in order that his election may be made doubly sure.

It is not at all improbable that partisan Republicans will make a widely concerted, but quiet, effort during the last two weeks of the campaign, to get out the fullest vote possible. May I therefore caution and urge our local Democratic leaders, officials, and workers likewise to use every effort to get out our vote, as the only safe course to pursue.

The Democratic National Committee is at your service and at the service of each of these candidates in every legitimate and feasible way. I shall thank you to keep me advised of the progress of the campaign in your State, and to offer any suggestions by which we can be of aid.

Very respectfully,
HOMER S. CUMMINGS,
Acting Chairman.

All children troubled with worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. Work Card System Inaugurated Here

Thru the "Work or Fight" system of the Government authorities the work card system is being inaugurated in this county this week. J. B. Summers is the county chairman and he held a meeting last week of representatives from the several districts and distributed the cards which carry records for five weeks reports. These district men will distribute the cards to the individuals and every man, boy and woman in the county is supposed to carry a card. And if found without one or if it be not properly executed the vagrancy laws will be called into action thru legal channels, or if in a deferred class the classification will be changed and the victim sent to camp forthwith.

Leading men of every community in the county have been asked to assist in this movement to the end that all idlers are put to useful work in every part of the county. In fact, the movement here is a part of a nation-wide effort along the same lines and indications are that every agency of the Government, state and local authorities will be behind the efforts here and elsewhere.

In Somerville and the first district Sheriff T. M. Ross and his chief deputy, W. S. Newby, with City Marshal W. H. Johnston are in charge of the enforcement of the regulations and it is expected that loafers about this city will have to hunt for jobs that will earn a living and help to carry on the useful and needed work of the country.

This is a movement that calls for the united efforts of all good citizens. Every man's labor every day is badly needed and it should be made the duty of all good citizens to help see that not one loaf on his job while the needs of America and her allies are as pressing as they are today, and her greatest need in man-power.

Promises Are Not Filling

The nation's feed bin is bulging with secrets but not with feed—at least not feed that can be obtained at fair prices or in a reasonable time. Last fall the Food Administration promised the farmer manufacturers, who are as greatly in need of raw materials as are other manufacturers, that every effort would be made to have feed prices reduced so that the necessity for higher prices would not be so urgent as to keep them awake nights.

The promises kept coming and finally bore fruit in a series of regulations that were to take effect about the first of the year. They provided that bulk bran should be sold at the mill for not more per ton than thirty-eight per cent of the cost to the mill of a ton of wheat. Other mill feed prices were based on the bran price. The men who owned herds of capacious cows got down on their knees and gave fervent thanks. However, they did not remain long in this posture.

The real test of a promise is its fulfillment, and so far the results have been negligible in benefit to the farmer. He is still kicking, but he appears to be in the position of a man hanged by the neck. He can do all the kicking he wants to, with the net result of a little skin off his own shins.

The universal complaint is that no feed can be obtained for prices anywhere near those provided by the Food Administration regulations. Many dealers get 100 per cent above those figures. One farmer writes that he applied to a local miller for feed and was told that he had none, but that possibly a certain broker could supply him. This middleman had feed to sell at a price that he fixed to suit himself.

Local dealers say they are unable to get feed from any source at prices in accord with the government figures, and that it is almost impossible to get any delivered. When accused of profiteering they assume the hurt-patriot expression and persist that they are doing business on the smallest possible margin.

But in spite of all protestations of innocence someone is squeezing thru, crawling under or jumping over the law.

There are quantities of feed in the country that should be in use now. A Food Administration worker who is giving his time to the feed situation said a short time ago that there was enough feed in cars, supposed to be in transit, to keep Eastern farmers supplied until grass. Some of these cars, he said, were loaded in October and November, and many of them in December. Probably if we could have eatless days for cows and pigs some Moses might have appeared to show the way out, but animal appetites cannot be stayed by addresses and promises. It is evident that somebody, intentionally or otherwise, is putting sand in the bearings and soap on the tracks. This is the only conclusion we can arrive at, unless we believe the muddle is due to blundering incompetency. Have men interested in keeping up the price of these feeds worried their weevily way into the management of this problem? If that is true it is time to use a liberal dose of carbon bisulphide in our national feed bin.

The fact we can all be sure about is that the man who needs these feeds is not getting the treatment he was promised and had a right to expect. The little retailer with jam on face pleads innocence and passes the buck to the wholesaler, who passes the hot thing on to the commission agent, and so on ad infinitum in the hope that the temperance will drop.

There is a dark-visaged profiteer somewhere in the chain, and it is up to the Food Administration to put a savage, hairy hand on his neck before he does any more damage. Grass will probably be lush and green when the farmer begins to feel the relief, but past experiences warn us to start early on next year's job.—Country Gentleman.
